NATIONAL WEBINAR ON CHOOSETOCHALLENGE ON THE OCCASION INTERNATIONAL WOMEN DAY JOINTLY CONDUCTED BY CENTRE FOR WOMEN'S STUDIES, AMAN MOVEMENT, NEW DELHI

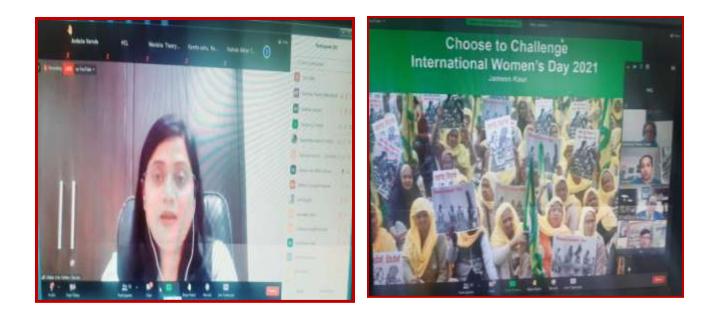

28th Feb. 2021 to 6th March, 2021

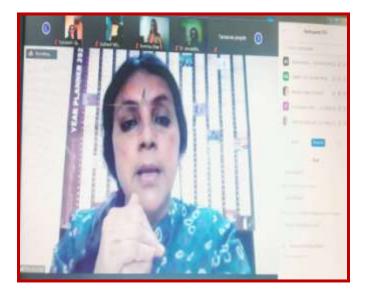

Theme	Date	No. of Participants
 Theme Women's laws/rights and Governance Advocacy, inclusive mindsets and tangible action required from all. 	28 th February, 2021	140
 Theme Coverage of Women's/ gender Issues in mainstream media, Scope for availability of other platform to bring Women's Rights issues in the centre of discussion; Everyone can play a role to forge gender parity; 	2 nd March 2021	120
 Theme Gender balance is not solely a women's issue, but also an economic issue. Challenges in way of women empowerment. 	4 th March 2021	115
 Theme Advocacy, inclusive mindsets and tangible action required from all; The rise of women is not about the fall of men Integration is key indicator of performance of Social Sector Schemes. 	6 th March 2021	150

International Women's Day

On the occasion of International Women's Day, the second episode of the national webinar on "Women's Issues and Their Presence in Media" was organized by Centre for Women's Studies Pandit Ravishankar Shukla University, Raipur and Aman Movement, New Delhi on March 2, 2021. The webinar started with the deliberate lecture of Delhi-based journalist Ms Bhasha Singh, who is known for her liberal views in national journalism, said that women's issues are related to other issues of the country, so women's problems cannot be seen in isolation. She furthersaid that after reaching out to the journalism community and understanding them, it is the first and the foremost task of conveying their message to the people and not justsitting in the news studio and reading the news. She told that generally the media remembers women only when there is an increase in the prices of LPG, whereas in today's situation women have other the issue too such as issues concerning their citizenship, matters related to agriculture, but the media does not talk about them. After her lecture, our next speaker Ms KavitaSuri, who is Journalist and Director of Department of Lifelong Learning, Jammu-University, in her presentation, elaborated on how today's media portrays film personalities as strong women, while the hard work of the working women and their Empowerment never highlighted in a newspaper. Next to her, the Chhattisgarh based Senior journalist said that Indian media mainly belongs to the upper caste and the upper class, and in such a situation neither weaker sections nor the women get equal status and a place in the news. He said that nowadays social media is shaking the mainstream media to cover the topics of social concern. The Co-Director of the Centre for Women's Studies Prof. Aditi Poddar shared her views that gender equality should start from our homes and media should give a big place to the incidents of gender equality in its news. She said that some Indian films likeKi & Ka, The Great Indian Kitchen etc. are vocal about women's freedom and more such films should be made.Well-known journalist of Chhattisgarh, Sari Subhash Mishra said that our point of view of looking at women is different, while women are very powerful in themselves. He said that it is necessary that we change our traditional way of looking at women. He questioned the role of the media and said that it is the responsibility of the media to properly evaluate the importance of the domestic woman and her presence. The Editor of the newsletter of Centre for Women's Studies Prof. Preeti Suresh said that to reach the position of gender equality, all women need to come forward collectively and at the same time there is a need to support men as well. Prof. Priyamvada Srivastava, Co-director Centre for Women's Studies, Pt. Ravi Shankar Shukla University welcomed the guests present in the program while Ms Poornima Dhar from Aman Movement Jammu and Kashmir conducted the program and the vote of thanks has been delivered by Dr. Anuradha Chakraborty.

International Women's Day

The Center for WOmen Studies, Pt.RSU,Raipur and Aman Movement organised a Natinal Webinar on the occasion International Women;s day 2021 on the topic Women's Economic Epowerment Ky to gender Equality on Thusday.

Decorated with Padamshri in 2021. Birubala Rambha from Assam who joined the webinar as women achiever narrated her journey of dedicationg her life ofr fighting against the evil practice of with Hunting she said that many years ago when she saw that the women in Assam were harassed on the pretext of witch hunting she was depply hurt and she deckled to takes stand against the same. She said that yearss latter any other acvists and oragnaixations joined in the cause and organxations joined in the cause and turned into a movment.

fashion designer from almora Uttarakhan. Vasanthi Veluri who supports economcs empowerment of women by utilising their ingenious sills of craft, said that she observed that when women receive economic opportunity their power to challenge the difficulties become mult fold. She added that the organizations that work with community must remain flexible with regard to their rules and norms of work as per the social and faimily structures, to encourage more womens participaton in economc activity.

Prof. Kavita Thakur form Pt.RSU, Raipur said that our conventional mindset towards women is primary impediment in way of gender equality. She said that work plasces must be safe so that women can work freely and fearlessly.

Prof. Priyamvadsa Srivastva said that in household work, the working women cantruly experience gender parity at economc and soical level and experience bettr growth Sheadded that there is need to combat viloence against women so that they can progess.

Dr. Hemlata Barkar from Pt.RSU, Raipuir sharing facts from history said that women are slowly marching towrds breaking sterotypes an younger generation play a good role in challenging the conventional norms and perceptions which must be enocouraged. Neelakshi Sharma and Purnima Dhar from Aman Movement introduced and faiclitated the programme respectively. Aniksha Varoda proposed a vote of thanks.